Kohala Coast, the Big Island, Hawaii

Plans are now in the works for an action-filled agenda addressing issues that are highly relevant to public utility regulation in the West, including energy efficiency, renewable energy, consumer protection, telecommunications and other important topics.

We are also planning educational site visits and briefings that may include the Hawaii Natural Energy Lab, state of the art wind farms, and a trip to Hawaii Volcanoes National Park along with a tour and briefing of the Puna Geothermal Venture facilities.

On Sunday prior to the start of the conference we are planning extracurricular activities that may include golf, a cultural walking tour, hiking, and various ocean activities, among others.
